

Solution

1. Connectors in English grammar are basically conjunctive words which are used for connecting similar elements present in a sentence. There are different connectors in English which can be used for expressing your thoughts in a better way.
2. Linking words or linking expressions are simply words and expressions that tie whole sentences, parts of sentences, phrases or individual elements together to establish a smooth transition in a text.
3. Linking words describe the relationship between two statements. Conjunctions grammatically join two clauses so that it reads as one sentence. Connectors are used between two separate sentences.