

1. What's the definition of connectors? Connectors in English grammar are basically conjunctive words which are used for connecting similar elements present in a sentence. There are different connectors in English which can be used for expressing thoughts. EXAMPLES:

* But → I wanted to go swimming but I'm so tired

2. Linking words are simply words and expressions that tie whole sentences, parts of sentences, phrases, or individual elements together to establish a smooth transition in a text. EXAMPLES:

* "The university tuition fee can be paid monthly. In addition, students are granted free access to the online library"

3. The difference between them is the connectors are used to link two separate sentences and the linking words are used to add more information using two clauses: independent or dependent and depending on the conjunction.

1. What's the definition of connectors? Connectors in English grammar are basically conjunctive words which are used for connecting similar elements present in a sentence. There are different connectors in English which can be used for expressing thoughts. EXAMPLES:

* But → I wanted to go swimming but I'm so tired

2. Linking words are simply words and expressions that tie whole sentences, parts of sentences, phrases, or individual elements together to establish a smooth transition in a text. EXAMPLES:

* "The university tuition fee can be paid monthly. In addition, students are granted free access to the online library"

3. The difference between them is the connectors are used to link two separate sentences and the linking words are used to add more information using two clauses: independent or dependent and depending on the conjunction.

1. What's the definition of connectors? Connectors in English grammar are basically conjunctive words which are used for connecting similar elements present in a sentence. There are different connectors in English which can be used for expressing thoughts. EXAMPLES:

* But → I wanted to go swimming but I'm so tired

2. Linking words are simply words and expressions that tie whole sentences, parts of sentences, phrases, or individual elements together to establish a smooth transition in a text. EXAMPLES:

* "The university tuition fee can be paid monthly. In addition, students are granted free access to the online library"

3. The difference between them is the connectors are used to link two separate sentences and the linking words are used to add more information using two clauses: independent or dependent and depending on the conjunction.