1. What are Connectors?

What is the definition of connectors?

Connectors in English grammar are basically conjunctive words which are used for connecting similar elements present in a sentence and help in connecting the sentence in a more logical way.

2. What are linking words?

Linking words are words that link or relate ideas within the same sentence or paragraph. They are widely used in English as they help to unite our ideas and give the text cohesion and coherence. If we use them incorrectly, we can totally change the meaning of the phrase and cause confusion, so it is important to know how they work. In the following article we will teach you how to use linking words correctly so that you will be successful in your written writing and can enrich your way of expressing yourself.

3. What are the differences between them?

The connectors, as their name implies, have the function of joining words, phrases, or sentences within the same paragraph and linking words are words that are used to relate ideas or concepts within the same paragraph or sentences.
