What you just went through is the kind of logic programmers go through on a daily basis.

If you enjoyed thinking in this way and using logic to solve problems, consider trying to learn a real programming language

Some examples are Turing, Java and Flash Actionscript. Programming isn't for everyone so
