Demonic Possession:

Hi, I'm Peter, a weird boy, but with a mature personality and different personality changes.

I have fallen in love with a girl and she probably rejected me, so I started to perform witchcraft to be able to pass the time of bitterness. I have been doing witchcraft for three months and in that a Demon possessed me. The devil is quite aggressive, but advises and complies with the parameters established by the coexistence manual, perhaps in the future with all this change, said girl will also fall in love with me.

I've finally decided that the devil will help me find that girl's love. I think it was not the best decision I could make, but at least the courage I have acquired now is going to help me.
